

multi-skilled & MULTI TALENTED

A range of packages that small businesses would find appealing and a competition to win a $5000 website

Business owners wanting to get their website, branding and marketing up to date will find iQmultimedia the 'intelligent' choice.

Based in Wollongong for the past three years, iQmultimedia is now setting up an office in Canberra and has an extensive range of services on offer.

'Our main focus is websites, but we work with a range of clients and provide graphic design services and branding as well as software development,' director Sam Marciano said.

The company has also turned its hand to television advertising, creating and producing a TV campaign for Horizon Credit Union with stunning motion graphics, an example of which can be viewed on iQmultimedia's website.

Also understanding the importance of branding, iQmultimedia can help any business, micro to mega, achieve the right 'look and feel' to effectively communicate the message of its brand across any and every medium.

While iQmultimedia has clients on its books such as BIS Industrial Logistics and BHP Billiton, Sam says the company is dedicated to providing services to smaller businesses.

'We're very approachable and we have a range of packages available to coincide with our three year birthday that small businesses would find appealing as well as a competition for a $5000 website giveaway.'

iQmultimedia is also confident about the level of expertise and service it can provide to new and existing clients.

'The biggest thing that sets us apart from other similar companies is that although everyone is a specialist in a different area, we all have a design background, even our developers,' Sam said.
